Preparation of Compound Extract of Buchn.

Mode of Preparation.—Buchu, In vacco.
Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by displacement with spirits obtained from Juniper Berries; very little sugar is used, and a small proportion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu as appeared by D. Buchu, as appeared by Druggiets, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a finme destroys this grance; the action of a finme destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchn in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other ingredients are added; to prevent formentation; upon inspection it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopoca, nor is it a syrup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflamation exist. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of prepara-Hoping that you will favor it with a trial and that upon inspection it will meet with
